

Banking Service Through the Storm and Stress of FIFTY YEARS

FIFTY years ago today, amidst the economic and industrial twilight of the Old South, this bank was established by a small group of far-sighted citizens, representative of the highest ideals, who in the face of conditions then existing, had the courage and faculty to serve their community, and unbounded faith in the future of Richmond and the South.

IN its long and successful career, fire, panics and warfare have tested the strength of the bank and seasoned its experience. On all occasions it has stood the test and has emerged with the increased confidence of the community.

On This Our Fiftieth Anniversary

WE feel that it is fitting to recall with pride and respect the memory of those whose vision, courage and tenacity brought the bank into existence, and to express our gratitude to those who followed them in directing its destiny, as well as to the thousands of loyal patrons who have contributed to the splendid success of the bank.

WITH the experience and seasoned judgment of half a century as a guide, with traditions that will be upheld, this bank will continue the policy which has gained for it the confidence of the public, ever mindful of the fact that the institution is a quasi-public servant vitally concerned with the constructive growth of the City, the State and the Nation.
